1. Introduction

After the death of the Prophet (p.b.u.h.), the task of teaching Islam was continued by His companions. Next, it moved to the tabi’in (they were the people who met and studied from His companions, but did not meet the Prophet (p.b.u.h.) and died in Islam (Majma ‘al-Lughah al-‘Arabiyyah, 1994) and then the tabi’al-tabi’in (followers of the tabi’in). They were the scholars entrusted by the Prophet (p.b.u.h.) to spread the message of Islam to mankind. The Prophet (p.b.u.h.) said: ... All the Islamic scholars are the heritage of the Prophets (al-Tirmidhi, 1417 AH).

After many centuries, Islam had spread around the world and the scholars were born in the places where Islam had spread. There are also pious scholars and faqih in religious fields, including fish, tawhid, akhlak, Sufism and others in the Malay World. They developed the knowledge in the areas among which they are also produced quality writing as a valuable legacy to the Muslims. Sheikh Daudal-Fatani was one of the most famous and prolific authors who produced writings in madhhab Shafi’i in the Malay Archipelago. His stature in the field of writing has been acknowledged by scholars in the Malay World. According to Voorhoeve, Sheikh Daudal-Fatani is the most famous scholar of Patani as well as the most productive in the region because of the many writings he produced (Voorhoeve, 1965). Among his most famous works are Bughyah al-Tullah, al-Sayd Wa al-Dhaba’ih, al-Bahjah al-Santiyyah, Mumay al-Musalli, Fara’al-Masa’il and Hidayah al-Muta’allim Wa ‘Umah al-Mu’allim. The books continue to be copied and published from time to time until today. This study provides a biography of his life.

1.1 Name And Lineage Of Descendants

His full name is al-‘Alim al-‘Allamah al-‘Arif al-Rabbani (Hooker, 1988:73), Shaykh Wan Dawud, son of Shaykh Wan ‘Abd Allah, son of Shaykh Wan Idris (also called Wan Senik) al-Fatani. He is also known as Sheikh DaudWalyullah, Sheikh DaudPengarang Kitab (Abdullah, 1991: 18). The descendants from his mother are as follows. His mother was named Fatimah, the daughter of Wan Selamah (1), daughter of Tok Banda Wan Su son of tok Kayak Rakna Diraja, son of Andi (Faqih) Ali Datuk Maharaja, son of Mustafa Datu Jambu (Sultan ’Abd Hamid Shah), son of Sultan Muzaffar Walyullah, son of Sultan Abu Abdullah Umdatun (Wan Abu or Wan Bo Teri or Mawlana Israel King of Campa). The descendants from the father are as follows. Shakhaw Dawud, son of ‘Abd Allah, son of Shaykh Wan Idris (known as Tok Wan Derashid or Shaykh Wan Senik), son of Tok Wan Abu Bakar or son of Tok Kaya Pandak, son of Andi (Faqih) Ali Datuk Maharaja Leila, son of Mustafa Datu Jambu (Sultan Abdul Hamid Shah), son of Sultan Muzaffar Walyullah, son of Sultan Abu Abdullah Umdatun, son of Sayyid Ali, son of Sayyid Nur Alam, son of Mawlan Shakhil Khaliqin al-Akbar al-Husayni, son of Sayyid Ahmad Shah, son of Sayyid Abdul Malik alias SayyidAbdul Muluk, son of Sayyid Alwi, son of Sayyid Muhammad Shahib Mirbat, son of Sayyid Ali Khali Qasam, son of Sayyid Alwi, son of Imam Isa Naqib, son of Muhammad Naqib, son of Imam Ali-Uradyi, son of Imam Ja’far Sadiq, son of Imam Muhammad al-Baqir, son of Sayyidin Ali, son of Zaynul Abidin, son of Sayyidin Husayn (grandson of the Prophet (p.b.u.h.)) from the marriage of Sayyidatun Fatimah, daughter of the Prophet (p.b.u.h.) (Saghir, 1990:11).

Sheikh Daud bin ‘Abd Allah al-Fatani was descendants of Faqih Ali alias Datuk Maharajalela on either the mother’s or father’s side, where consanguinity of mother and father met. Faqih Ali, also known as Tok Koda Bonang was the son of Mustafa Datu Jambu, who was a governor appointed by the King of Patani to rule in Jambu. He was a brother of Datu Jamaluddin, who became governor in Pengkalan Datu, Kelantan. He invited his brother to attack the Yuwun (Annam) in Campa for revenge and conquered Phan Rang City. Thus, he became the King of Campa with the
1.2. Discussion On Date Of Birth

There are various opinions about the date of birth of Sheikh Daudal-Fatani. Some historians said in 1133AH/1720AD, 1153AH/1740AD. Notes have been found in the Natuna Islands (Bunguran) from the family of Hajjah Siti Saudah, mother of Hajjah Wan Zainab, mother of Wan Mohd Saghir Abdullah and some said 1183AH/1769AD. Articles in the Ensiklopedia Islam Indonesia (IAIN Syarif Hidayatullah Writers Group, 1992) said that Sheikh Daudal-Fatani was born in 1122AH/1710AD (Abdullah, 2002:2). Azra Azyumardi (1994: 260) wrote that Sheikh Daudal-Fatani was born in 1153 AH/1740AD as he had studied with al-Barawi (1182AH/1768AD) and completed his first work in Mecca in 1224AH/1809AD. This means that at the age of 69 years, he had established himself as a scholar. Besides, Ahmad Fathi al-Fatani in his writing stated that Sheikh Daudbin ‘Abd Allah al-Fatani lived in the era of Shaykh Muhammad Arshad al-Banjari (1710-1812AD)(Fatani, 2002: 25), while Nik Ishak Haji Tikat said that the birth of Sheikh Daud al-Fatani was in 1183AH/1769AD. However, Wan Mohd Saghir Abdullah said that the date 1133AH/1720AD is the best option according to the writings of Tuan Guru Haji Abdul Hamid bin Abdul Qadir al-Sanawi who has family ties with Sheikh Daud al-Fatani:

“Dan sangat mustajab doanya dan pula, cenderung umuranya kadar 166 tahun. Ia turut pada masa Sultan Sharif Muhammad Arshad Khan al-‘Abbas 1297 Hijrah”. (Sanawai, nd: 24-25.)

If 166 years are subtracted from 1297AH, it leaves 1131AH. This means that the date of the birth of Sheikh Daudal-Fatani is 1131AH/1718AD. This is only two years different from 1133AH/1720AD, which was the option of Wan Mohd Saghir Abdullah. His birthplace was in the palace of the Sultan of Pattani, Kerisik, which covered an area of one square kilometre. His family home was in the area as the family played an important role in the Islamic activities in the Kingdom of Fatani from generation to generation until it came to his father Shaykh Wan ‘Abd Allah bin Idris bin Shaykh Wan Senik al-Karisiq al-Fatani.

Abdullah al-Qari said in Diao that Sheikh Daud al-Fatani was born in Kampung Bendang Gucil (Qari, 1967: 131). Ismail Che Daud and Ahmad Fathi al-Fatani (Fatani, 2002: 26) said that he was born in Kampung Parit Marhum near Kampung Kerisik (Che Daud, 1988: 3(2)). This opinion has been presented by some of the Fatani people to Wan Mohd Saghir Abdullah. However, Wan Mohd Saghir Abdullah holds the opinion that Sheikh Daudal-Fatani was born in Kerisik, which can be proven by the writings of Haji Muhammad Husyan bin Abd Latif al-Fatani, known as Tok Kelaba, in a verse of nenzam poetry (Old poem like poetry) consisting of twelve lines in one verse. Composing poetry such as poetry, Bernazam. Storytelling with song, Sidang editor, 2007: 1073) “Fatani yang masyhur negeri nu allifinya. (Author) Negerinya itu Kerisik yang hampar sungainya.” This poem was written on the front of the Hidayah al-Muta’allim copy, which contains 32 verses. It was written in 1301AH/1883AD. Wan Mohd Saghir Abdullah has been brought by the family descendant of Sheikh Daudal-Fatani to the place of his former home in Kerisik where he was born in 1971, and finally found the stumps of his former pillar. At the end of 1994 he visited the well of Sheikh Daudal-Fatani located in Parit Sungai Kerisik near the home of his birth (Abdullah, 2000: 4).

1.3. Discussion On Date Of Death

Sheikh Daud al-Fatani died in Taif and was buried beside the tomb of ‘Abd Allah bin ‘Abbas radlyAllahu’anhu. However, there are many opinions about the date of his death. Ismail Che Daud in his writing stated that he died in 1263AH/1847AD. This was derived from Haji Nik Tikat. Safuillah Mohd Sawi also said that the date of his death was in 1265AH/1847AD (Mohd Sawi, 2005: 619). There is also a suggestion that he died at the age of 80 years (78 as the year of AD). Hajjah Wan Zainab binti Shaykh Ahmad al-Fatani said that the age when he died was almost 200 years. Tuan Guru Haji Abdul Hamid al-Sanawi Teluk Manuk said that he died in 1297AH/1879AD at the age of 166 years. This view is supported by Haji Wan Mohd Saghir by reference to the manuscripts in the Museum of Islamic Centre, where he found writings that said 1297AH, ghabr prayer of Sheikh Daudal-Fatani was declared in Patani. (Abdullah, 2000: 40)

2. Literature Review

2.1. Education And Teachers

Sheikh Daud al-Fatani started his basic education within his own family; both his father (Shaykh Wan ‘Abd Allah) and grandfather (Shaykh Wan Idris) were great scholars. He also studied at various pondoks in Patani-Pondok Kuala Bekah, Pondok Kerisik, Pondok Samla and Pondok Pauh Bok (Azyumardi, 1994: 261). Some of the scholars in these pondoks came from the Middle East and Yemen (Matheson, Virginia and Hooker, 1998: 20). Then he learned in Aceh with Muhammad Zayn bin Faqih Jalalduddin al-Ashi a leading scholar in the reign of Sultan Alaudin Mahum Shah (1174-1195AH/1760-1781AD). Sheikh Daudal-Fatani became an expert in fiqh after studying from him for two years.

In 1765AD, he went to Mecca to pursue his studies where he met with friends from Patani including ‘Ali bin Ishaq al-Fatani and Shaykh Muhammad Salih bin Abdul Rahman al-Fatani. While in Mecca, he founded an association for the Malay communities with students from Southeast Asia (Hurgronje, 1906: 254-255). He studied with ’Isa bin Ahmad al-Barawi (died 1182AH/1768AD), along with students from the Archipelago including Abd al-Samad al-Falimbani (Riddel, 2001: 199)(3), Muhammad Arshad al-Banjari, Abdul Rahman al-Batawi, Hummam Nafis and Abdul Wahab Buggis. Among the friends, he was the youngest, and was appointed as a young teacher. All the older students became his teacher or at least helped him while studying. He studied hadith and fiqh, specifically the comparision of madhhabs from Isa bin Ahmad al-Barawi and Sufism from Shaykh Muhammad Salih bin Abdul Rahman al-Fatani.

Sheikh Daud al-Fatani was also an expert in hadith while he has a sanad in hadith connected to al-Barawi and prominent scholars, such as Abdullah al-Basri, Alaudin al-Babi, Shamsuddin al-Ramli and Zakariyya al-Ansari. Although he never went to Egypt, he could learn from some great Egyptian scholars, such as the famous Shaykh al-Azhari, al-Sharqawi, when he came to Mecca. He was known in the field of hadith, shariah, theology and Sufism. In addition, Sheikh Daud al-Fatani also studied fiqh and theology from Muhammad Ali al-Shanwani (died 1233AH/1818AD), who was the successor of Shaykh al-Sharqawi as Shaykh al-Azhari. Apart from these teachers, Sheikh Daud al-Fatani also studied from other scholars including Muhammad As’ad, Ahmad al-Marzuqui, and Ibrahim al-Rais al-Zamzami al-Makki. Muhammad Ahmad al-As’ad and Ahmad al-Marzuqui who were his teachers in fiqh as well as Shafi’i and Tariqat Shaziiyyah. This proves that he did not hesitate to explore the different religous schools openly (Mohd Sawi, 2005: 619). Among the teachers stated in a written manuscript of Sheikh Daud al-Fatani, which was found in 1995 by Wan Mohd Saghir, among them were:

i. Shaykh ‘Ata’ullah
ii. Shaykh Muhammad Zayn bin Faqih Jalalduddin Acheh.
iii. Shaykh Muhammad bin ‘Abd Karim Al-Sammani al-Madani
iv. Sayyid Sulayman bin Yahya bin ‘Umar Maqbul al-Ahdal

Since there are many teachers who are still not mentioned, the possibility is that they were the last teachers. The most famous teacher when he was studying at Pattani was Shaykh Abdul Rahman Pauh Bok al-Fatani. His teachers while he was in Mecca and Medina were also teachers of Shaykh ‘Abd al-Samad al-Falimba-ni and Shaykh Muhammad Arshad al-Banjari. Shaykh Muhammad Yasin bin 'Isa al-Fadani (Padang) made this conclusion in three of his writings based on the following evidence (al-Fadani, 1988). First, Sheikh Daud al-Fatani has studied al-Ashariyyah Wa Sharhaha Wa Sharhuhu al-Afrumayyish from al-Sayyid Sulayman bin Yahya bin 'Umar Maqbil al-Abdal, the sibling of Sayyid Abdul Rahman bin Yahya al-Abdal who was the teacher of Shaykh Muhammad Arshad al-Banjari (Abdullah, 1990: 154). Shaykh 'Abd al-Samad al-Falimban also studied with both the scholars, as well as with their father Sayyid Yahya bin 'Umar Maqbul al-Abdah. Thus, Sheikh Yasin wrote in his book Tasnif al-Asma' that a scholar named Muhammad Zaynuddin al-Fatani studied from al-Sayyid Abi al-Fayy Muhammad Murtada al-Zabidi and Sheikh Daud al-Fatani. Al-Sayyid Abi al-Fayy Muhammad Murtada was also a teacher of Shaykh Muhammad Arshad al-Banjari.

3. Methodology/Materials
This study is a qualitative research used full content analysis method as the main source of collecting data. The content analysis is a research method that makes the focus on the message by making systematic observations of the categories chosen by the researchers (Babbie 2010). Therefore, the researchers concluded and build opinions on background of scholar in term of Sheikh Daud’s contribution on writings in various fields.

4. Results and Findings
Sheikh Daud al-Fatani authored books in various fields covering almost all branches of the Islamic sciences (Mohd Sawi, 2005: 620), such as fiqh, ibadah, theology, Sufism, daily life indicator, a Muslim’s duty to fellow Muslims and non-Muslims, fiqh in general, the teaching of prayer, business, faraid and marriage and divorce (Abdullah, 2000: 21).

4.1. Discussion On Sheikh Daud’s Writings
He is the most famous scholar of Patani and a prolific author who produced many of the writings in the archipelago (Vorhoeve, 1965: 154-155). His first work was in Mecca in the year 1224AH/1809AD, while his last was in 1258AH/1843AD (Mattheson and Hooker, 1988: 285). Among the most famous of his works included in fields of:
